

Why Windows and Mirrors Matter for Educators – Know Better, Do Better!

Sponsored by Black Hawk Reading Council

Wednesday, April 28, from 6:15-8:30 p.m.

Amy Treadwell and Lisa Vahey, former teachers, coaches, and school leaders, will help us explore Rudine Sims Bishop's work on windows and mirrors, a way of thinking about the texts we choose and use in our teaching, in our libraries, and with our families. You'll learn from passionate educators, build a strong resource list, create a personal equity action plan, and connect with colleagues. This is an interactive and dynamic professional learning opportunity (2 PD clock hours) for PreK-12th grade educators invested in literacy work.

Visit bit.ly/BHRCApril28 for more information and the link to join!

